It is announced at Oyster Bay that the extra session of Congress, which was to have been called first in March and then in October, is now set for November 10.

The engagement of Miss Corinne Blackburn, daughter of Senator Blackburn, to W. H. O'Neil, of New York, is announced. The marriage will take place early in the fall.

One of the most terrific hailstorms ever experienced in Central Kentucky passed over Woodford, Scott and the western edge of Fayette counties Friday. Tobacco and fruit trees badly damaged.

Auditor Hager declares that State Revenue Agent Frank A. Lucas has no authority to make collections of taxes on land mortgage notes. Lucas claims that he has full authority to make such collections, and that the Auditor's attitude arises from personal spite.

It is held by the Kentucky railroad Commission that under the State Constitution express companies doing business in the State are common carriers, and as railroad corporations, and therefore the Commission claims that it has the right to regulate the rates where charges have been made transcending the rates exorbitant.

It may be long in coming, but the signs indicate that Cincinnati will have to take her turn in being devastated. A well posted writer in McClure's says it's the worst governing city in Ohio, and charges now open, and proved by a newspaper to that city are astounding. Investigation may be stifled for awhile, but the storm is sure to burst.

John, an eminent statistician is authority that the census taken in only three years ago shows that there are only 100,000 people in the State, and that the population is decreasing. The fact cannot be disputed that a powerful element in the Republican party of West Virginia will oppose in giving Mr. Elkins another term. His opposition is not based on any dissatisfaction with the Senator personally, but grows out of his alleged alliance with Governor Dawson. The anti-Dawson Republicans believe his election to the Governorship was largely due to the fact that Senator Elkins championed his candidacy against Charles F. Teter, an exceedingly popular business man of Philippi, who had friendship of the railroad and coal mining interests.

"By way of retaliation the friends of Mr. Teter are now booming Unredeemed States District Attorney Blizard for the Senatorship and are counting upon the dissatisfied elements in the Republican party to help along his boom. It is well understood that the railroads and the people who are interested in coal and oil properties are hostile to Governor Dawson because of his advocacy of a taxation scheme they regarded as inimical to their interests. This makes a division within the Republican ranks, and there will be a fight to the finish. The Democrats, who have been in the minority so long in the state, are jubilant over the Republican row, and are banking on electing their Senator. Unless they should benefit by Republican dissensions, my belief is that Senator Elkins will succeed himself."

It would be very interesting indeed if Kentucky were "all transported" far beyond the Polar sea. There's scarce a journal of any consequence in this great city that has not a Kentuckian or so connected with it in some way. The big editors say they love the work of the wide-awake Southerner, with his vivid fresh impressions and his untrammeled point of view.

Frankfort, Ky., July 28.—What is considered here a practically authoritative statement is made of the approaching resignation from the bench of the Kentucky Court of Appeals of Judge Jas. E. Cantrell. The resignation is expected to be presented about September 15, and either Mr. J. D. Carroll, of Henry county, or Judge Watts Parker, of Lexington, will be appointed to the vacancy.

Annapolis, Md., July 24.—The remains of Admiral Paul Jones were laid away upon American soil this morning. At 10 o'clock the body of the intrepid Admiral, first man to reach that rank in the American navy, was taken from the chapel where it had been lying in state. The ceremonies were very simple, but when the naval academy shore batteries boomed forth with the 15-gun salute, in honor of the home-coming Admiral, many eyes were wet. Honor, long deferred, was being done in a manner fittingly solemn and fittingly simple to a real hero.

New York, July 24.—Col. Daniel Lamont, Secretary of War under Mr. Cleveland, died at 9:15 o'clock last evening at his country residence at Millbrook, Dutchess county, N. Y., after a brief illness.

Heart failure was the cause of Col. Daniel Lamont's death. Col. and Mrs. Lamont were out driving in the afternoon, and Col. Lamont appeared to be enjoying the best of health. After dinner he complained of feeling ill, and Dr. Stewart, of New York, who is a guest at the house, immediately went to his aid. The physician diagnosed the case as an attack of heart failure, and in spite of the heroic treatment, Mr. Lamont passed away within half an hour. At his death were Mrs. Lamont and two daughters, Frances and Bessie. Several guests at the Lamont home were also present when the end came.

Daniel Scott Lamont was born at Cortlandville, N. Y., February 9, 1851. He began life in journalism, and from 1885 to 1889 was private secretary to President Cleveland. Subsequently he became prominent in street railway interests in New York. He served as Secretary of War from March 6, 1893 to March 6, 1897. After retiring from the Cabinet he became vice president of the Northern Pacific Railway.

The latest mess of graft to be dug up and pollute the nostrils of honest men is the find in the Department of Agriculture, old Grandmother Wilson's bureau. And it wasn't unearthed by the Government, either. The Government doesn't seem to be in the unearthing business to any considerable extent. A member of the New York Cotton Exchange, suspecting there was a leak somewhere, did some investigating on his own hook, and he was not long in finding out that a statistician in the department was selling information to those interested and reaping a big harvest from his rascality. He worked a pretty slick scheme. He sold $500,000 worth of mine stock to a cotton broker, getting for it $93,700. The broker testifies that he never saw the mines and didn't want to.

The crop news he got from Holmes was all he wanted. This is only a specimen. Holmes has made similar "sales" until he has grown rich, being able to build apartment houses in Washington and do other things usually done only by men of large means. Of course, when he was found out he was fired. He was only an assistant, being without influence, he will be punished. Loomis, of the State Department, "stood in" with the asphalt people, but being a favorite at court, he got his nice new coat of whitewash and a promotion! 'Twas ever thus. The clerks and the assistants who get caught doing dirt got into the penitentiary, if they cannot carry State conventions, but who will point out the name of the bigger fellow, the really responsible rogue, who has been punished?

The opposition in West Virginia to the re-election of Senator Stephen B. Elkins seems to be getting pretty strong. Hence the following from our former fellow citizen, James A. Hughes is pertinent and interesting. "Although this is an off year in politics in our state," said Representative J. A. Hughes, of West Virginia, today, "there is a good deal of stir over the coming election of a Senator to succeed Stephen B. Elkins. The fact cannot be disputed that a powerful element in the Republican party of West Virginia will oppose in giving Mr. Elkins another term. His opposition is not based on any dissatisfaction with the Senator personally, but grows out of his alleged alliance with Governor Dawson. The anti-Dawson Republicans believe his election to the Governorship was largely due to the fact that Senator Elkins championed his candidacy against Charles F. Teter, an exceedingly popular business man of Philippi, who had friendship of the railroad and coal mining interests.

"By way of retaliation the friends of Mr. Teter are now booming Unredeemed States District Attorney Blizard for the Senatorship and are counting upon the dissatisfied elements in the Republican party to help along his boom. It is well understood that the railroads and the people who are interested in coal and oil properties are hostile to Governor Dawson because of his advocacy of a taxation scheme they regarded as inimical to their interests. This makes a division within the Republican ranks, and there will be a fight to the finish. The Democrats, who have been in the minority so long in the state, are jubilant over the Republican row, and are banking on electing their Senator. Unless they should benefit by Republican dissensions, my belief is that Senator Elkins will succeed himself."

Campton, Ky., July 25.—A telephone message received at this place this morning said that George Banks, known also as Carson, had shot and instantly killed Newton Taulbee, his half-brother, on Lacy creek. Banks and Taulbee had been enemies for some time, and trouble was expected between them. Taulbee had been instrumental in having Banks and his sister indicted in the Circuit Court of this county for robbery. Early this morning they met in the county road, and Banks opened fire and the ball penetrated Taulbee's head, killing him instantly. Banks or Carson is a son of G. W. Carson, ex-County Judge of this county, and Taulbee his son-in-law. Banks has not been arrested yet.

Ashland is to have a mammoth freight depot. A deal was closed Thursday by Dr. Wm. Salsbury, of the city, answer to a telegram received by him from C. O. Land Agent G. B. Wall authorized him to purchase for the C. & O. railway a tract of land fronting 520 feet on Front street, and 142 feet deep. This takes in the square between 13th and 14th streets, and that portion of the next square below the Aldine Hotel which lies back of the wholesale house of Crump & Field.

The C. & O. intends erecting a freight depot on the ground at an early date. This deal was closed within three hours after the receipt of the telegram authorizing same, the price paid being $30,000.

On the 17th of June, at the beautiful country home of Abel Candill, in Rowan county, occurred an unusual family reunion. The family consisting of father, mother and fifteen children (ten boys and five girls) were seated together at the festal board, and partook of a bounteous dinner.
